MULCH UNDERLINER

Professional landscapers have a new ally in their battle against tough, hard-to-control weeds. The Weed Arrest Mulch Underliner by Warren's Seed and Special Products Division proved better than 90 percent effective in restricting the growth of large crabgrass, johnsongrass, yellow nutsedge, dandelion, sandbur, pigweed and six other tough, aggressive weeds, according to field tests done by Clemson University.

Made of 100 percent premium polyester to resist sun, the soil environment and harsh chemicals, the underliner is needlepunch bonded, making it soft and flexible and easy to install. It conforms smoothly to landscape contours. The bonding also permits water, fertilizers and air to pass through so soil and plantings stay healthy. Its high co-efficient of surface friction keeps bark, wood chips and other mulches in place and helps prevent mulch erosion on tough grades.
