KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS

Midnight Kentucky bluegrass is useful as a high-maintenance turf grass because of its dark blue-green color. It also does well as a low-maintenance turf where water is short and maintenance costs are a factor.

It adds color and density without heavy fertilization to sod production, athletic fields, and golf course fairways and roughs. It is available as an individual variety or as a component with Columbia and Challenger.

MOWER

The Auto-Trugreen mower for fine turf allows a higher cut, which increases pace with less stress on the turf.

The unit has twin split rollers on each side of the machine driven by a hydraulic motor axle from an 8.5-hp vertical shaft engine. This provides a forward/reverse transverse with a variable speed control.

With a third roller attachment, leveling is achieved by the over-riding effect on slight hollows. Other attachments include a spiker-slitter, brush, rake, and sarel-type roller.

TURF BLANKETS

Tyvar Turf Blankets protect grass from winter desiccation and promote early green-up. They are made of spun-bonded polypropylene.

In the spring, they promote rapid germination and root growth. Light, air, and water is admitted through to the soil.

A few wire pins or long large-head nails will hold down the blankets. Spray a commercial turf wetting agent directly onto the blanket before the first watering. Only this first application is needed. When spring green-up occurs, mow only a third of the new growth at a time to prevent a set back. Blankets can be put back on if an additional cold spells is anticipated.

HERBICIDE

Vantage herbicide controls annual and perennial grasses. The newly consolidated label allows users to find information on application rates, tank mix compatibility, and general use. It also includes two registered uses: weed control in wildflowers and tank-mixing with Basagran T/O herbicide.

Grass control in wildflower stands will help growers minimize stand thinning, stunting, and reduced seed production. Mixed with Basagran T/O, it can provide growers with an effective post directed herbicide to control yellow nutsedge, and grass and broadleaf weeds in ornamentals.

MULCHING ATTACHMENT

The Tricycler variable-opening mulching attachment for 48- and 54-inch mower decks can be set at one of five positions—higher for mulching grass and lower for leaves. Grass clippings are chopped into fine pieces and blown into the turf where they decompose. Leaves are pulverized into the turf where they break down without adding to a thatch problem.

The unit can be attached to 48- and 54-inch commercial walk-behind mowers; F525, 710 and 725 front mowers; LX186 and 188 lawn tractors; and GT262, 240, 260, 265, 285, and 320 lawn and garden tractors.

SCREENING PLANT

The Kolberg 251 is suited for a variety of material processing applications, including processing topsoil, sand and gravel, processed rock, milled asphalt, recycled concrete, and dry bulk materials.

The unit is self-contained with on-plant power allowing it to be operated at any location. An off-plant stacking conveyor can be driven by the unit to increase stockpile capacities.

Features include a 6.5-cubic-yard hopper with a fixed grizzly, a 30-inch-x-40-foot material conveyor, and a four-x-eight-foot two-deck, high-frequency screen with discharge chutes.
