These brown areas in front of this sidewalk behind the endzone were caused by an application of Glyphosate to eradicate the weeds in the cracks of the sidewalk. The applicator did a very good job of applying the correct rate of material with a low volume backpack sprayer. However an unexpected and errant raincloud appeared over the stadium about an hour after the application of the material. The rain caused the weed killer to runoff the sidewalk causing the dead areas of turf. Since this happened during the off season, the bermudagrass was allowed to grow back over the affected area.
