

Some people would tell you this is a football...

They will also make all kinds of claims that calcined products are better infield conditioners than Diamond Pro. They will tell you anything, just to make a sale.

The fact is, long-lasting Diamond Pro Infield Conditioner maintains the game readiness of your playing field by increasing drainage and reducing compaction in skinned areas. Used as a drying agent, it absorbs 38% of its weight in water, but doesn't break down and blow away like calcined clay products. And bulk shipments from one of our nationwide distribution sites can save you up to 50% over bagged calcined clay products. No wonder Diamond Pro is the choice of eleven major league teams and thirteen out of the sixteen college regional tournament sites.

Get all the facts during the Diamond Pro National Tour. See product demonstrations, hear tips and learn the best techniques for achieving professional playing field results during groundskeeping workshops led by veteran industry professionals. When you have all the facts, you'll have Diamond Pro on your infield.
